

JANESVILLE DAY SENDS CROWD TO FAIR

TARIFF ONCE MORE IS FOOTBALL FOR YANK POLITICIANS

HOPE OF AMERICAN BUSINESSMEN DASHED BY DEVELOPMENTS.

COMMISSION SPLIT

"Scientific" Discussions Follow Partisan Paths in Washington.

By ROBERT T. SMITH, Special Correspondent. Copyright 1924.

Washington—Events in the past few days in Washington have dashed the hopes of American business men that the tariff ever can be taken out of politics. It is once more a political football and promises to continue so to the end.

The republicans in the last congress wrote the so-called "flexible" provisions into the Fordney-McCumber tariff act with the idea of giving it a "scientific" flavor to the various imposts. The president was authorized to lower or raise the existing rates as much as 50 per cent, if advisable, in order to equalize any change in the cost of production of (Continued on page 3)

SUSPECTS FREED AT FT. ATKINSON

Two Men, Arrested in Connection With Depot Safe-Blowing, Have Alibis.

Fort Atkinson—With the release of John May and Frank Brady, suspects in the robbery of the Chicago and Northwestern depot here early Wednesday, when the safe was blown, the search is being continued by Chief of Police August Hansen, and Sheriff Dennis Smith.

The two men were arrested at the Edgewater stock farm. They furnished an alibi. They explained they were umbrella men who have worked here for several days.

No definite clew or a description of the two men seen to flee in the darkness has been obtained. Charles Blum, night watchman, called by Herbert Barrett when he heard the explosion, did not hear any sound from the men to obtain any kind of a description, other than that one was tall and the other short.

GIRL TURNS OUT CAR LIGHTS; LAND IN DITCH; 4 HURT

Whitewater—A youthful prank caused the wreckage of a Ford car driven by Leo McQuillan, and injury to four occupants, when it went into a ditch and turned turtle on the Port Atkinson concrete road late Wednesday night.

McQuillan has a broken leg as the result of the accident, which took place near the Ralph Treat farm when one of the girls turned off the head lights in a spirit of fun, as it was being driven by McQuillan. He lost control of the car and it pitched headlong into the ditch.

The other three occupants of the machine, Tony Shaw, Paul Schaefer and Katherine Tice were badly bruised and shaken up.

MORE BUS LINES AND WINTER OPEN ROADS

Janesville should be, must be, a great bus line hub if we solve transportation problems.

There are needs for more bus lines out of Janesville. The railroads have met the present passenger situation by taking off trains instead of putting on a service with gasoline cars frequently operated, which would meet the new and changing conditions brought about by the almost universal use of the automobile.

We have a number of bus lines out of the city. We want to extend the trade territory. We want more immediate touch with the surrounding neighborhood. There should not be such restrictive measures adopted against the bus lines as to hamper them unnecessarily.

The day of the railroad train for local passengers has passed. The railroad adopting an ostrich-like method has put its head in the sand and instead of capitalizing change has reduced its own possibility for income by abandoning the passenger to his own devices.

We have never had adequate service on the local trains. The great territory west of Janesville has never been cared for so that its natural outlet for trade received proper treatment. But the bus will solve all this.

With bus lines we must have open roads.

Snow removal in winter and open roads are a sign of the times. It is progress. We hear a lot of being progressive but progressive means to go forward. We needed snow on the roads in 1880; we do not need it now.

If you want a reactionary get one of these men who says snow cannot be removed and roads cannot be kept open.

The time will come when we shall have to solve the problem of doing business twelve months in the year or be restricted to seven. Merchants and bus lines will do it. The farmer will be ready to support an open road in winter when he sees that he is losing five-twelfths of his business life otherwise.

More bus lines; more open roads.

These will solve the transportation problem and in the advancing times take the place of the abandoned railroad passenger service.

Gompers Refuses List of Queries to John W. Davis

Atlantic City—Members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor predicted today a nation-wide interest in the public relations of the labor movement which showed that John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, recently had sought a conference with Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., and explained why the council refused to defer endorsement of the Labor-Union-Whelan candidate until after Mr. Davis' acceptance address.

The correspondence which passed between Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and William B. Wilson, former governor of New Jersey, and a member of the staff of the democratic national committee at Washington, consisted of a telegram, dated Aug. 5, from Mr. Gompers to Mr. Wilson, asking that he have the executive council defer endorsing La Follette; a letter from Mr. Wilson to Mr. Gompers, dated Aug. 6, in which endorsement was announced; and (Continued on page 3)

C. J. Wrightman, another candidate in the race yesterday, conceded Walton's nomination and The Daily Oklahoman, which has been predicting that he would win, predicted in today's issue that Walton would ultimately gain a plurality of 10,000 votes.

Understanding Between Parent and Child Held Imperative by Alienist

Chicago—Understanding based on a healthy comradeship between parent and child is the solution to the question of how to handle children liable to do criminal acts, Dr. Bernard Glueck, alienist and director of the Bureau of Children's Guidance at New York, declared last night. He made the statement after finishing his testimony for defense in the Franks trial and just before departing for New York.

"The home should create an atmosphere in which these boys as 'persons' feel free to talk himself out, pour forth his childish troubles, his fancies and ideas—and there should be some one to listen and respond."

"I've tried to become acquainted with these families, and want to say in justice to them that they did all in their power and knowledge, but they didn't realize."

"Very few parents do realize that their children's thoughts and dreams may make up the whole existence for a child."

"And that is how this tragedy may do great good; if it makes parents know that contact with their children must be psychological as well as physical and that children can't be left to their own devices."

Secretiveness on the part of a child is said to carry with it a sense of guilt, he said.

"This tragedy occurred because no one ever knew these boys as 'persons.' There was never at any time an understanding of the whole child, but merely certain phases. And a child isn't a 'phase.' Their parents knew each in the conventional relation, and their teachers knew each in the public pupil phase—merely as intellectual receptacles."

He condemned the conception of discipline which causes a child to build up defense mechanisms—such as lying—and deplored the school system which requires the child to perform well as a pupil and to behave according to the rules.

It was the first streak of hope radiating through three days of rain. Blue birds were to cheer as the crowds for Janesville day began to pass through the gates.

Stores and factories throughout the city closed Thursday noon. Farmers from all portions of the county began pouring into town early in the morning. Visitors from nearby cities began arriving at the grounds.

Getting Tracks Ready.

Early Thursday morning work was started preparing the two tracks and the grounds for the tremendous crowds expected. The unending rains of Monday night and Tuesday morning had converted the grounds into a muddy swamp, but with the warm sun of Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning, it was believed that the park would be in good condition by 2 p. m.

Landscaping, sand and ashes were hauled into the grounds all morning, and being dumped in had places. The entrances to the midway and the grandstand were being prepared. Workers were busy shoveling patches of mud away from the track entrance.

The race tracks were also being raked and gone over Thursday morning. Teams were hauling huge rakes over the half mile track at an early hour.

PIG CLUB RIBBONS TO BOYS AND GIRLS

Evelyn George, Evansville, Sweepstakes Winner—Chester Manthei, Ton Champ.

Evelyn George, Evansville, is the sweepstakes champion winner in the Rock county junior pig club as the result of awards made Wednesday at the Janesville fair. The George girl won the Gazette pig club cup on a Duroc pig from the spring litter of her 1923 pig club gilt.

Chester Manthei, Janesville, one of the best pig raisers in Wisconsin, at 11 years of age, not only won the county championship in the ton litter contest, but won the junior club Gazette cup for fat pigs in the Junior exposition class. Manthei topped the list for the best fat pig and best pen of three pigs in the pig department of the pig club. The entries of Manthei were Duroc and one of the same stock that produced the winning ton litter for Rock county the last two years. The litter was sired by the herd head of Clarence Croft, Evansville.

Dobson is Judge. Adverse weather failed to dampen the spirits of the Junior club members during the judging by Judge Dobson, Lancaster, who made the awards in a most admirable manner. Inspecting every class carefully, Dobson gave full justice to the youngsters, all eager for the top honors and ribbons. The top prize in the club pig exhibit were undoubtedly fine young porkers, good type and well fitted.

In the Chester White division Hattie Ruth Campbell, Evansville, won the breed championship with a gilt from the spring litter. The awards were as follows: 1924 pig club gilt, these given recently at delivery day: 1, Edmund Meyer, 2, Alice Clark, 3, Harold Porter, and 4, Adelle May, and then in pens of five the order was as follows: Tamié Patricien, Helen Davis, Ruth Campbell, Chester Lacey and Elmer Campbell, second pen of five, Raymond Soderberg, Robert Lacey, George Kuffel, Werner Beck and Elmer O'Brien and then Robert Meyer and Harvey Cox. In the pens the order of appearance carries no significance as to standing as all five receive the same prize money.

On the 1921 pig club Ruth Campbell topped with her championship pig of the breed followed by Melvyn Lacey, Philip and Frank Schumling. In the year class Lorraine Porter was first, Alice Clark, second, and Harold Porter and Chester Lacey in the order named. In the Duroc class Evelyn George won the breed championship on the year pig. The 1921 club gilt was obtained in the drawing were placed as follows: 1, Evelyn George; 2, Genevieve Babcock; 3, Dorothy Hunt, and 4, Lee George. First pen of five, Hollister Raymond, James McCarty, Catherine Hunt, Walter Paul and Clifford Zantow; second pen of five, Harold Porter, Paul Aldenburgh, Robert Anderson, Raymond Cleveland, Rudolph Tromms; third pen of five, Norris Davis, Carl Aldenburgh, Russell Drexler, Vernon Leitz, Harry Roberts and following Robert Anderson, Raymond Paulding, Royal Ward and Roy Hutzel.

Other winners. John Decker won the club for the 1924 gilt from the 1923 club pig and in the year class Evelyn George took first, Dean Meyer, second, and Genevieve Babcock, third. In the class for 1921 club gilt the top four places were awarded to: 1, Joe Monocue; 2, Hugh O'Leary; 3, Harry Arndt; and 4, George Jones, with the first pen prize owned by Arnold Beckland, Roy Bails, Stanley Keeler, Robert Franklin, Archie McLeann, the second pen to Elizabeth McLean, Helen Keeley, Richard Strickland, Helen Masterson and Mildred O'Leary; the third pen to Carl Jones, John Horton, Merrill Davis, George Soderberg, Martin J. Leath, followed by Francis Kelly, Thelron Davis, Evelyn Johnson. Judge Club Cakes. In the Hampshire class Raymond Miller won the breed championship. The order for the gilt four in the 1924 club gilt follows: 1, Jack Miller; 2, Laverne Laird; 3, Edith Mark; and 4, Raymond Jones, the first pen, Clarence Laird, Lutz Miller, Alvin Piggstad, Clark Van Gilder and in the gilt class from the 1923 club pig the order follows: 1, Raymond Miller; 2, Herbert Miller; 3, Clarence Laird and 4, Laverne Laird, and in the year class, Edith Clark, Beckshire class, with Paul Meyer, second, with Elmer and George Spotted Poland.

The club cakes and sheep were judged Thursday and on Friday there will be a club demonstration.

Green County's Fair, August 12-16

Liberal premium offerings have stimulated interest in the Green county fair, Aug. 12-16, and the exhibits will probably be the largest in the history of the Monroe attraction.

An unusually fast racing program has been arranged with from 12 to 20 entries in each race. A new attraction this year will be the boys and girls club tent near the stock pavilion and the club exhibits and evening demonstration in front hall and in the educational tent.

Both floral and agricultural halls will house attractive inebriant displays in addition to the splendid exhibits.

The midway will be one-third larger than last year and four bands have been engaged to furnish music. Free acts will be presented daily. There will be no night fair.

The latest census figures show that Wisconsin has 112,174 fewer women than men.

CLUB BOY WINS TON LITTER BLUE

Chester Manthei, 14, Repeats for Rock County Pork Championship.

Fourteen year old Chester Manthei, Janesville, not only won the Rock county pork producers by winning the second straight championship in ten litters, decided at the Janesville fair. Twelve Durocs raised by Manthei, farrowed March 14, weighed 2030 pounds when put upon the scales. Under the rules of the ton litter class the pigs of Manthei must weigh 1325 pounds in the 144 days and they had 704 pounds to spare.

Manthei won the 1923 ton litter championship for the county and in fact the same sow that produced the last year's champions repeated in 1924. The sow was bred by L. A. Ruchl and 1924 litter sired by the herd head of Clarence Croft.

Show Good Type. The winning litter carried real type as well as weight. Pigs from this litter won in the open competition and are well developed. Long and rangy and not showing extreme fat. The Manthei Durocs will gain weight before the state fair and livestock show in Madison to make the litter real contestants for state honors.

Second honors were won by Tewa Brothers, Hanover, on Durocs, having but 11 pigs Tewa was somewhat handicapped and this litter carried about every pound of weight that could be skillfully packed on the pigs. They were farrowed early, Feb. 23 and to be eligible they must weigh 1651 2-3 pounds in the 144 days and consequently had a margin of 455 1-3 pounds. They tipped the scales at 2140 pounds, the heaviest litter on the grounds but losing to Manthei because of the difference in age. Daily Is Third. Harry Dahly, Janesville, was fourth, his 10 Durocs farrowed March 4, weighing 1840 pounds, having a margin of 160 pounds over the required weight in 144 days.

Fourth place went to J. G. Davis, Janesville, on a litter of 11 Poland-Chinas, farrowed April 10 and weighing 1655 pounds, a total of 350 pounds over the required weight for 117 days.

The ton litter contest shows that good feeding and breeding is necessary for the production of a ton of pork from one litter in six months. The championship litter did not show signs of being pushed. Rather they appeared to have been carefully developed to obtain length, smoothness as well as weight. The medium rangy type weighed more than the chuffy hogs so often favored on the farm.

There are 12 ton litter candidates in the county but only four weighed in at the fair. All the four litters are eligible for the state contest at Milwaukee and Madison and Manthei intends showing his at both shows.

POLICE TO GET PRINT EQUIPMENT

Finger Print Camera and Other Paraphernalia to Be Purchased.

A special camera designed for photographing finger prints may be purchased for the Janesville police department. The purchase is being considered by City Manager Henry Thayer and it is believed the proposal will be accepted and the new equipment secured.

During the past few months Sergeant Charles Handy has been taking a course in finger print problems offered by the U. S. School of Finger Prints, Chicago. He recently completed the course with a good record.

The course taken by Sergeant Handy gives instruction in the taking, classifying and filing of 10 sets of finger prints according to the Henry method and a general explanation of the basic principles.

The first case in Janesville in which the finger print method was used as a means of detection was that resulting in the arrest of Eugene Swanson, 15-year-old high school youth, charged with the burglary in the night time of the Fred Granger residence.

Following the looting of the Granger residence in July, police made an inspection and Sergeant Henry secured a thermos bottle on which faint signs of prints were evident. The bottle was taken to police headquarters and the prints brought out by means of a special powder. A picture was then taken for future evidence.

Will Complete List. Prints of Swanson's left hand were obtained, as the boy had a previous court record. The comparison was perfect and the arrest followed. Although the system has been in use in Janesville for only a short period, prints of 12 people with police records have been obtained. These are being filed, together with complete information.

It is planned to make the work a part of the regular police system and a complete finger print list will be maintained. A special glass, on which the prints are taken, together with a rolling and classification cards, have been secured.

If the camera is purchased, police will be able to take pictures of prints at the spots where crimes are committed, thus making it possible to present conclusive proof.

The finger print method of detecting criminals is now being used by all of the major police departments. It is said that no two persons have the same finger characteristics and that there is little opportunity for error.

Purchasing Power of Farmer to Hit Record, Assertion.

Superior — Belief that the purchasing power of the farmer in the northwest would be increased this year by $2,000,000,000 over previous years was expressed by C. B. Hardy of Swift and company, Chicago, before the Superior Rotary club Wednesday.

The speaker said the situation regarding agriculture in the country was by far much better than in 1921 and 1922 and is gradually improving. "While the farmer does not notice the slowly increasing prices being made in agricultural lines, they will display in time a clear picture of prosperity," Mr. Hardy said.

PRICES COMING UP. Continued recession in business fields and rising prices for agricultural products were outstanding features of the federal reserve board's monthly business conditions review.

More Donations Toward Radio Set

FIREMEN'S RADIO FUND.
Previously acknowledged... $137
Hager Dye Works... 5
Parker Pen Company... 10
Total to date... $152

Subscriptions of $5 from Louis Korstel, of the Hager Dye Works, and $10 from George S. Parker, of the Parker Pen company, increased the fire department radio fund to $152 on Thursday.

In a letter accompanying the $10 check, Mr. Parker said: "Just a little word of appreciation to the fire department. It always makes me feel that when ever I see the department and call to mind the splendid and intelligent work done by the men connected with your department. Success to the radio fund."

tions have been barred by the fair board. A ferris wheel and merry go round have also been installed and proved popular Thursday.

The racing card this afternoon promise to be the most exciting of the week. Purses totaling $2,000 have been put up and the entries include some of the fastest horses in the respective classes. The races, postponed from Wednesday, are the 2:15 and 2:30 pace and the 2:16 trot.

The sale of grand stand seats was reported to be unusually heavy and it was expected that by starting time desirable seats would be at a premium. An extra staff of ushers have been employed to take care of the crowd.

Between race heats the free acts will be presented on the huge platform erected directly across from the grandstand. The acts are all of the highest type and proved popular Tuesday.

To Night's Show.
At seven o'clock tonight the grounds will be again the scene of activity—the scene of the great night fair. The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated and the exhibit buildings opened. Free seats will be present across from the grandstand. The entertainment will be climaxed with the spectacular fire works display that will be held from all sections of the grounds. Due to the fact that there was no night fair Wednesday the exhibit tonight will be especially attractive.

Friday, Rock County Fair Bureau Day, will also be another feature day. The attendance is expected to equal that of Thursday.

"Ancient Egypt," what is considered to be the most spectacular and beautiful of the four different fire-works displays at the night fair, and was scheduled for Wednesday night. Janesville day, will be given Thursday. It has been announced, and in addition to the four acts of vaudeville will make for excellent evening program. All exhibit buildings will also be open and well lighted for those who were unable to see them during the day.

The Christian Church ladies will hold a fancy work, apron and bake sale in Faltzinger's old store room, Saturday. Call phone 1024 for home made doughnuts. —Advertisement.

The correspondence set forth that Mr. Davis had, last July 17, begun negotiating with Mr. Gompers for a conference, that conferring on agreements kept them apart until Mr. Davis suggested that Mr. Gompers give him "a statement of questions in which labor is chiefly interested."

It set forth that Mr. Gompers, professing a willingness to confer with Mr. Davis, declined this last request, saying: "I cannot submit questions to you which would not be equally submitted to other candidates for the presidency."

The correspondence set forth further that Mr. Wilson had asked Mr. Gompers, first, to defer action of the American Federation of Labor, executive council on the proposed endorsement of La Follette, and second, to adjourn its annual session here, send representatives to Clarkston, Va., for the Davis acceptance address, and reconvene at Clarkston for consideration of the endorsement matter.

Replies of Gompers.
The correspondence revealed that Mr. Gompers had replied in part: "The executive council deemed itself fully competent to deal with the problems entrusted to its keeping for consideration and action."
"We are fully informed as to all who rendered valuable services in connection with Clayton law. At an appropriate time these records and facts will be fully set forth in none of which does Mr. Davis appear."
"Regarding your statement that it was the supreme court decision upholding the Clayton law which prevented a strike on the railroads of the country and giving Mr. Davis credit for having won the decision, let me recount facts which are in direct conflict with your statement. It was the machinery of the labor movement and not Mr. Davis and the supreme court which prevented the threatened strike."
"We are sure that you did not fully comprehend the nature of our request or the impossibility of our compliance."

KOCH MANSLAUGHTER HEARING POSTPONED

RIVER IN SLIGHT RAISE OVER NIGHT

Rock river rose a tenth of a foot over Wednesday night, to stand at two feet above the mark, according to figures maintained at the Fourth avenue plant of the Janesville Electric company. Drainage from storms in the northwest of Janesville is believed to be the cause. The first quarter of the new moon made its appearance Wednesday night bringing with it a change in the weather to beautifully clear. The thermometer was slowly rising, Thursday, going from 72 at 8 a. m. to 75 at noon.

COMPLETE JUDGING CATTLE THURSDAY

Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayrshires
Compete in Dairy Breeds—Continue Today.

Despite adverse weather conditions for the fair several hundred braved the mud and rain to watch the judging of the cattle classes at the Janesville fair Wednesday. In the dairy breeds the Holsteins, Jerseys, and Ayrshires were the main attraction, with Ray Hulse, Madison, judging in the beef and dual purpose breeds, the Milkings, Shorthorns, Angus, and Short-horns and in the dairy breeds, the Brown Swiss and Guernsey breeds were being judged Thursday along with the Herefords, Red Polls, Galloways, in the beef line, and John C. Robinson, Janesville.

There was keen interest in the Holstein showing although all the competition was over. The Rock county breeders. The county herd animals went through, losing the top place in but one class.

The "One of the Oldies," a white and blue Holstein, the age bull, added one more blue and two purples to his string, winning his class, senior and grand champion. The "Oldie" was owned by W. J. Ward and Sons, Avon, and Archie Reid, Jr., was second, and the Wisconsin School for the Blind herd bull, third.

There was no competition until the senior bull calf class, when the straight top-lined youngster bred by the School for the Blind won over the Burton herd bull, purchased from the Carnation herd by the school. The two year old bull honors went to a county herd entry of Grant River, the senior yearling to the Burton herd, and the junior bull calf to Wolf and Goltz, with the School for the Blind second. In the senior yearling class the Burton herd placed ahead of the Grant River herd, and the junior bull calf to Wolf and Goltz, with the School for the Blind second.

Good Age Cows.

The only real competitive class in the Holstein show was in age cows, when nine hundred and fifty of the white breed were led into the ring, every one having some good show points. The race for the blue ribbon centered between the second type cow of W. J. Ward and Sons and the smaller, refined cow of John W. Jones, showing a remarkable udder. It was a close decision, with justice in the end, giving the top honors, but the blue finally went to the Ward cow. Third place went to the three year old cow of J. M. Hunsin, and fourth to the four year old cow of W. J. Ward and Sons. Showing out of her class as far as age was considered, this cow was pointed out as a "outstanding prospect." The Wisconsin School for the Blind cow, bred by John W. Goldthorpe, a mighty nice animal and a big winner last year, stood fourth in line.

W. J. Ward and Sons' two year old was an easy winner in the two year old class. The Rock County Farm herd, the senior yearling class, won the blue. The Rock County Farm herd, the senior yearling class, won the blue. The Rock County Farm herd, the senior yearling class, won the blue.

The Rock County Farm again won the blue in the senior yearling class, with the School for the Blind second. W. J. Ward, third, and Peter Templeton, fourth. A calf from the Milwaukee farm won the junior bull calf class. The senior yearling and grand went to the wonderful two year old of W. J. Ward and Sons on Beauty Farm, and the junior yearling to the Rock County Farm senior yearling.

In the special competition for cups run up by Archie Reid, Jr., and John Goldthorpe for the best Holstein bull and cow owned and bred in Rock county, honors went to Grant River for the male on Sir Teltonia Mercedes, bred on the Ward farm, and the cow championship to W. J. Ward and Sons on their grand champion two year old.

The county herd won all the groups, with the exception of young herd which the School for the Blind won.

Milking Shorthorns.

There was keen interest in the Milking Shorthorn classes, for in addition to the county herd string of 24 there were entries from the D. M. Sayre herd at Fulton and R. W. Lamb and Son, Janesville.

Knowledge's Shorthorn 5th, a smooth, white, four year old bull owned by Rush Wentworth, Port Atkinson, won the age bull class, defeating Walter's Enterprise of the Lamb herd. Two year old honors went to the Rye Brothers herd bull, Abraham Batcher, junior champion at the last international.

In making the senior championship awards, Johnson, judging, gave it to the older bull.

Red Laddie won the class for senior yearling bull. J. Hunsin and junior yearling honors went to a roan bull out of Clarabelle the 2nd, state record shorthorn, owned by Sayre and junior bull championship was awarded to the calf, John Kinsella Lad, owned by A. J. Barless, the youngest entry in the class, but a fine calf.

The Cow Classes.

There was a good class of age cows, with Mable of Janesville, owned by Rye Brothers, finally winning the blue because of superior udder development, with Sayre second, Waukegan Belle, owned by Rye Brothers, won the two year old class and was made senior and grand champion female.

R. W. Lamb won the junior yearling class and the Rye Brothers and Barless entries of the county herd took the tops in the other classes, including the junior championship on a yearling from the Barless herd.

In the groups of both the open class and the Wisconsin Shorthorn special, the county herd entry won, age herd, Lamb first, Sayre second and the county herd on young herd, Rye first and third, on get-of-sire for the county herd, the group classes, the winning get being sired by Waukegan Snowstorm, now owned by Al Addie, Milton, and the Rye cattle won the producer of dam, with Lamb second and third.

In the yearling herd class in the "Special," Rye entries took the blue and Sayre second, and in the yearling bull class the white bull of the Rye Brothers defeated the roan of Sayre, with the Ransom bull third.

The Ayrshires Show.

There was keen competition between the J. B. Simons Ayrshires from Waukegan county and those of Shuttlesworth Brothers, Michigan. Simons won first and second on age bull, Shuttlesworth a blue and one year old and senior yearling, but Simons winning in the other classes.

The bull calf of J. C. Nisbet, placed second with the Rye herd, Simons winning the class in the ring. Simons placed one, two and three on age cows, Shuttlesworth winning the two year old class, other female classes went to Simons except the senior calf class, when Louis Suez, Waukegan, was called in to place, and awarded the blue to the calf.

NIGHT FAIR NOTES.

With grounds resembling a cross between a man's hand and a familiar brand of my paper, dozens of persons trod up and down the midway at the fair grounds Wednesday night in search of excitement. Most of them were new to the grounds, and most of the exhibit buildings were closed, the "take a chance" stands and lunch counters did a good business.

There's the man who will guess your weight within three pounds or give you a box of candy or an excellent five-cent candy. Some one has suggested that there may be a need for "No Smoking on the Grounds" signs if he should mis-guess himself.

White has been the most popular color for women's shoes at the fair grounds so far this week, although many other delicate shades also have been seen.

The music box on the merry-go-round has been placed in running order, and added to the festive atmosphere of last night's merry season. With no band present, it furnished the only thing nearing harmony.

from the University of Wisconsin entry, being shown with the Rock county. The new cow of Simons was senior and grand champion, and the college calf, junior champion. Simons won all the group except produced dam, going to Shuttlesworth.

In the Jersey competition the two entries of the county herd, bulls owned by W. O. Douglas and Ellis Douglas, went the limit. The age bull of Ellis Douglas won his class over the Knight Farm, Eagle, Wis., and was senior and grand champion. The yearling bull of W. O. Douglas won the class, and was junior champion. All other places were won by North without competition. North is showing a fine string of the island cattle, especially age cows.

In the Angus competition M. C. Wilford, Canton, Minn., took most of the blue, all the championships and most of the groups over cattle of W. W. Bird, Cuba City, Wis. Bird won the two year old cow class and junior calf.

There was sharp competition in the Red Shorthorn between J. B. Lathers, Jellott, and Ralph Reynolds, Lodi, Wis.

Reynolds won the age bull class, senior and grand champion on Rye Prince, senior yearling class, Lathers won the two year old bull honors and junior yearling, senior yearling bull. The top females went to Reynolds and the group classes to the Lodi breeder, except in the age cow class, when Lathers stepped in for the blue.

The Shorthorn classes were completed Thursday and the balance of the beef awards made.

Tears and Tomorrow

Berlin was filled with men and women standing before a great, black-draped coffin. The harness-maker president had finished a speech in which he had stood under the drapery which bore the legend, "To the Living Spirit of our War Dead." Women fainted with emotion. Men and women wept bitter tears. Ten years ago today
the casualties began to come back to Germany from the front. A few snipers among the Belgians, whose lands had been invaded and their villages pillaged, killed a few German youths, goose-stepping toward the borders of France. In the lapse of four years Germany became a cemetery for a million more light haired youth and dark haired men and heavy-bodied older members of an army built into the perfection of a war machine for the glory of God and the Kaiser.

Now there were tears Sunday for the dead—tears and yet a cheer for the living spirit of those dead. No matter what lesson was taught by war it had not been learned. The spirit was not the spirit within the souls of the conscripted youth
but the spirit of the Junker Germany which set out to rule the world.

The Junkers were there. They have learned no lesson. None could be taught them. None ever will be taught them. They lost the war but no one else won it. France looks over its war-damaged fields and its still barren and wrecked wastes and the rows of white crosses with tear-less eyes. It has been forgotten in the jealous madness of an allied friendship that has been fading for six years.

Guns and munitions are nothing in starting a war if the spirit is present. Guns may be fashioned easily and secured if needed. They are bringing up the sunken ships for the Junk pile from Scapa Flow where the German navy went to oblivion. But war may not be fought on sea if land runs is plenty.

There would be greater sympathy for the German who weeps on a day of commemoration, on a day when bitterness fills the heart, were it not for the knowledge expressed in the spoken word that the bitterness was not for the real criminals but for those who figured as factors in ending the war and with it the power and glory of the moving Satans who had driven the dead to conflict.

So long as the tears come from hearts bursting with grief for dead sons and fathers, the world will weep with that mass of mothers and fathers and others in the square at Berlin. So long as bitterness may be against the ambition-mad leaders who herded that army as an invading host against other nations and threw those German sons into the jaws of death, then we shall be deeply sympathetic and extend the hand of assistance.

But so long as tears are not only those of sorrow
but tears of anger against the United States and those who defended their homes from invasion, sympathy dies out and Dead Sea ashes only remain.

Not the living but the dead spirit of Old Germany is what the world wishes to see. Not the old spirit but the new and living spirit of a new Germany with no military Junker autocrat who may order golden-haired youth to march into a peaceful and neutral land, and hell be turned loose on earth. With that new spirit we shall rejoice. That will be a great tomorrow for Germany and the world.

About the most progressive thing in this world
just now is the price of corn, wheat and hogs.
These have no vote but they are progressing.

Posses with bloodhounds are seeking the author

Joseph Conrad

Much has been written in the last six months about Joseph Conrad because he was making a visit at the time to America. His death again calls attention to the possibilities within a human being for expression and how a purpose once fixed may be carried to a successful end.

No matter where the English language is spoken, Conrad must be accepted as a purist. Yet at 19 he knew less than six words of the language. Poverty hastened his laggard footsteps to a life on the sea and it was this sea which he followed as a common sailor for 20 years before he wrote a book, that was to be the background
for a series of tales which have made his name eligible for the hall of fame in two countries—
his own land of nativity—Poland and that of his adoption, England.

Conrad always held that he owed nothing whatever to genius but to a purpose within himself and continuous drudgery in writing. We put it another way, that "work" spells "success." The amazing thing is that in his occupation as a sailor before the mast, with all the hard work, the physical misery and the surroundings, he never

FOR THE METRIC SYSTEM

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington—American manufacturers and business men are interested in one question, which may not assume the proportions of a national in-sue in the impending presidential campaign, but which will be much agitated at the next session of congress—the proposal looking to the official option in this country of the metric system of weights and measures. As an evidence of their interest they maintain two nation-wide organizations that are carrying on propaganda for and against the proposal.

The Metric association, of which George P.
Kunz of New York is president, and Samuel W.
Stratton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former head of the bureau of standards of the department of commerce, is the ranking member of the executive committee, favors the proposed change. The next annual meeting of the association will be held in Washington
during the last week in December.

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to per and also local news published herein.

are news. The following items are chargeable at the rate of 25 cents a count line, average 6 words

Obviously the experts are not of one mind as to what should be done and where experts disagree laymen may stop, look, and listen.

The proposal has been presented to congress
in a measure introduced in the senate by Senator Ladd and in the house by Representative Britton. It is entitled "a bill for extending the use of metric weights and measures for certain purposes." It provides first, that from and after Jan. 1, 1934, metric weights and measures shall be used for buying or selling goods, wares or merchandise, unless permission to use other weights and measures has been granted by the federal department of commerce or by a state department of weights and measures or by an authorized official of any state, and for charging for the transportation of any goods, wares, or merchandise unless permission to do otherwise has been granted by any of those designated authorities; and second, that not later than Jan. 1, 1933, all postage, excises, duties and customs charged or collected by weight or measure by the government shall be charged or collected in terms of metric weights and measures.

Exceptions are proposed to the law, however, as the bill stipulates that it shall not be construed
as applying to any contract made prior to Jan.
1, 1934, to the construction or use in the arts, manufacture, or industry of any specification or instrument designed, constructed or graduated in any desired system; to goods, wares or merchandise intended for sale in any foreign country; or to manufactured goods which have been or may be ordinarily known in terms of any other weight or measure.

Rules and regulations for the enforcement of the law are to be promulgated by the secretary of commerce, who may take such steps as he deems necessary to make the law effective.

Proponents of the metric system lay great stress
upon the fact that the United States and England are the only countries of any importance in which it has not been adopted. France instituted the system in 1800 and in the century and almost a quarter elapsed since then, 34 nations have made metrics the only legal units and in 212 countries they are recognized by law and used more than any other units. As a matter of fact the use of the metric system was legalized in the United States in 1866 and in 1893 the international metric standards became the standards upon which all weights and measures of the United States are based. Use of the metric system has never been made compulsory in this country.

In considering the change, what the average individual wants to know is whether he would be confused as to what he was getting if he made his purchases by the meter, gram and liter, rather than by the yard, pound and quart. He is told by the Metric Association that he will find it very easy to remember that the meter is 100 per cent longer than the yard, that the 500-gram weight is 10 per cent more than the pound, and that the liter is 5 per cent more than our liquid quart.

Business men and manufacturers are interested primarily in what it would cost to make the proposed change, as well as the confusion that would ensue. On this point the Metric association says that opposition to the metric system is based on a misconception and that opponents are either prejudiced or inexperienced. Arthur E. Kennelly, electrical expert of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is quoted as saying:

"It is true that some manufacturers have many blueprints, catalogues and size records which would be upset by a transition to the international metric system; with some attention, however, the change and expense in renumbering, but the idea that their machinery or their product must needs be altered is unfounded. We should seek to bring about the advance in such manner as to minimize the trouble to these manufacturers."

As to the expense of making the change, the association claims it is but a fraction of the loss occasioned by the use of the system now in use and presents figures showing that the annual loss
presently suffered by the United States and England incident to the confusion of weights and measures totals
the enormous sum of $5,000,000.

It is estimated that the loss during the World War due to delay in adopting the metric system
was almost nine billions of dollars.

The loss in education is based on the estimate that children must remain in school two-thirds of a year longer than would be necessary if they were taught the metric system with its simple decimal correlation of parts and units.

Dr. Stratton, former Director of the Bureau of Standards, in discussing the question of the cost of the transition, said that the fact that firms opposed to the metric system already carry on export business indicates that it is profitable to do so.

"The change is one of magnitude, but changes
more sweeping have engaged most of our industries within a generation. The whole process of making electric lamps has been changed three times within a generation; one railroad has been built three times within the memory of men now living, and the practice of generating and distributing electricity is changing so rapidly that it is difficult to keep pace with it."

At Smith has stirred the philologists with his term "crackpot" applied to Willie Hearst. Now south of Hester street as applying to one who has gone "cuckoo." Yet a dictionary of slang says it means "a pretentious, worthless person." Add that to the back appendix of Webster.

THE GOOD WORLD

The Lord must have liked us, I say when I see
The bloom of the rose and the green of the tree,
The flash of the wing of a bird flitting by,
The gold of the grain and the blue of the sky,
The cover below and the tall pine above,
Oh, then, something about us the good Lord
must love.

The Lord must have liked us, I say when I stand
Where the waves like an army come into the land
And the birds riding high on the crest of the breeze
And the ducks flying north in their echelon V's,
The sun slipping down into liquid gold—
Oh, then the great love of the Lord I behold.

The Lord must have liked us, I say at the dawn
When the diamonds of dew gleam and glow on the lawn,
And the birds from their throats pour the red
As if life held no burden of sorrow or wrong;
The Lord must have loved us, I whisper just then

To give such a world to the children of men.

The Lord must have liked us, I say as I pass
The nest of a meadow lark deep in the grass,
Or hear in the distance the quail calling clear,
And know that his mate and his babies are near;
Oh, I say to myself as His wonders I see
The Lord loves us all, or this never would be.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1924.

Uranus in horoscope dominates this day, according to astrology. Neptune and Venus are adverse and Saturn is somewhat helpful.

This should be a lucky rule for aviators and all who travel in electrically propelled conveyances.

By the signs dominant today astrologers propo-nate an impulse from the court which will inspire the most astonishing inventions.

Seemingly miracles, even greater than the radio forecast and man is to reach into realms not hitherto dreamed of by human intelligence.

All who would be happy will have romance
and all forms of love-making while this configuration prevails.

Women should be especially circumspect at this time, for they will be easily misunderstood while Neptune is in evil aspect.

Accidents at sea and even shipwrecks are forecast at this time when traffic on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans will be affected.

Consistently astrologers prophesy antagonism between men and women where national reforms are concerned.

Surprises in the Presidential election will affect the status of women. Several are to attain high place in public service.

There is a possible good sign for business partnerships in professions where a high degree of education is required.

If the stars are read aright campaign slanders are to increase in number and virulence at this time.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a prosperous year, if they avoid all

ly intelligent in character and difficult to guide,

est places in the world.

HISTORY OF TODAY

TODAY'S EVENTS.

Stanley J. Weyman, one of the most popular of living novelists, today enters upon his 70th year.
In the state-wide primaries in Tennessee today
for candidates for the offices to be filled at the November election, United States Senator Shields and Governor Pennington are the only candidates and both have opposition in their own party.

1700—William Blount was elected first governor of the territory southwest of the Ohio river. He is now in the United States Senate.

1807—Robert Fulton's steamship "Clermont," made its first trip from New York to Albany, at an average speed of five miles an hour.

1814—Commissioners from England and from the United States met at Ghent to arrange a treaty of peace.

1821—Gen. Joseph Desha was elected governor of Kentucky.

1867—Ira Aldridge, a negro pianist of remarkable reputation, died in Poland. Born at Bristol, Md.

1934—Russia threatened to interfere in the Japanese war if her trade suffered too severely.

East Room of the White House.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Aug. 7, 1884.—J. W. Cameron was the successful bidder for furnishing the navy department with coal for this winter. His price was $1,292.—A large night-blooming cereus was displayed to neighbors and friends
by Mrs. Morris Clark, High street, last night.
An effort is being made to preserve it in alcohol.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 7, 1894.—Only Commissioners Anderson

ing of the school board last night. Commissioners Mout and McClenn were in Chicago, and Commissioners Cunningham, Goldin and Welsend engaged.—Stanley Tallman went to Ripon
today to take part in a bicycle race.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 7, 1904.—All the damaged tobacco in the recent fire at L. B. Carle and son's warehouse has been taken over by the insurance company.
The loss is $4,000.—About 150 tons of carps have been taken from Lake Koshkonong this summer by professional fishers, according to Game Warden Peter Drafahl.

TEN YEARS AGO
Aug. 7, 1914.—Post cards received from Mr.

in Europe, mailed from Heidelberg, indicated that if they followed their itinerary they would be unable to cross the border because of the edict of the German government owing to the war.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

PIMPLES AND PUBERTY
Of acne and adolescence. They're the blemish and blemish of hum and eggs, associated yet by no means inseparable companion. Sometimes pimples begin at the age of 10 or younger,
sometimes they keep right on coming after the individual has attained adult age. In any case, however, a good amount of pimples are good for a youth. They keep him from sinking over the fact that he is a youth. Pimples and pride do not jibe at all.

There's nothing whatever incongruous about pimples. They are so very common in youth that they are almost physiological. It is one of the signs of a physiological insignificance of growth
for they happen because the general secretory functions, including the secretory glands of the skin, are developing at a rate too fast for the rest of the body to keep pace with for a while.

One feature of acne which entitles
it to be called the "youthy" skin condition is the fact that the stigma attached to the condition in the mind of the ignorant and the vicious. As I have already said, there is no evil significance in a crop of pimples. It is only basis I can imagine for the ignorant fancy that pimples have any relation to "impure blood" or to any moral deficiency in the individual. The suggestion of the patent medicine fakes which is constantly given to the simple public for the blood money
there is in that fancy. And that's a business to which the hand of followship is extended by legitimate business everywhere.

It may be that there is another popular misapprehension which is another stigma attached to the stigma to the mental misery the victim of acne suffers. The popular notion that there is in that fancy. And that's a
